The decision to stand for nomination as an officer of the AFL is one that should be well thought out and well-planned.

Delegates who want to let their names stand for the position of President and/or Secretary Treasurer will declare their intention and submit a written nomination form to the AFL office by the completion of business on the first day of convention.

If you are not successful in your candidacy for President, you must have a signed nomination form for Secretary Treasurer, should you wish to run as a candidate for that position.
